OTHERS AND DAUGHTERS NIGHT ENJOYED HERE ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

PRESENT PROGRAM

Members And Girls Attend Banquet At Christian Church.
Valentines Are Favors.

Fathers and Daughters' Night was served by the members of the Greencastle Kiwanis Club on Thursday evening with a banquet and program at the First Christian Church.
There were sixty in attendance and one of the best social meetings in recent months was enjoyed.

After a delicious meal, served at 8 o'clock by the ladies of the church, a most entertaining program was presented by daughters and friends of the Kiwanians.

To start the program, Waldo Mitchell led in the singing of several old-time songs. The group sang as a whole at first and then the singing was taken by tables in a contest to see which table had the best harmony.
Miss Leota Mullins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Mullins, and Miss Vera O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Brown, played a very pleasing selection on the piano and Xylophone.

The Green sisters, two DePauw University students and members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority, sang several popular numbers in a most charming manner and they received much applause. Miss Zine Flenor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Audrie Flenor, gave three readings which received a big hand. Miss Mary Louise Harris, a niece of James L. Ranelie, also favored the Kiwanians and guests with an amusing reading.

Miss Betty Mullins, accompanied by her sister, Miss Leota Mullins, sang "Sally of My Dreams." Miss O'Brien gave two readings in an entertaining manner.
Valentines were given to the daughters in favor of the Kiwanis members and in return received comic valentines from their daughters. A contest of who would be the first to blow up a small balloon to the bursting point, was conducted especially for the younger girls and this provided much merriment.

The meeting concluded with an after short song fest under the direction of Prof. Mitchell.

Musical Show Pleases Audience

"Gilda of Holland" PRE-SENTED THURSDAY EVENING
FIRST TIME.

"Gilda of Holland" presented in the Grand Theatre Thursday evening for the first time, and to be given again tonight, was well received by a representative audience at the first showing.

The entire production was well presented and showed careful training in directing and much unusually good musical talent was manifested during the whole performance. It was staged under the auspices of two De-Pauw music societies, Phi Mu Epsilon and Mu Phi Epsilon.

STREETS ARE SLICK

Streets over the city proved treacherous to pedestrians as well as drivers of vehicles on Friday. The snow which fell Thursday night covered the streets and sidewalks and sidewalks. Several citizens were victims of falls during the morning but fortunately no one was seriously hurt.
One brought to a quick stop on the streets were seen to skid on various occasions and in one case an auto came completely around before being brought to a standstill.

the Golden Rule Sunday in this community is in receipt of word from the State Chairman, showing that this community responded to the call for funds for relief work, by donating the total sum of $190.88.

The total sum raised throughout the nation, the state report shows, was very gratifying and the proceeds will go towards relief for children in the Near East.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Guy Pickens is in receipt of word of the death of her uncle, Henry Hill, at his home in Welda, Kansas.
Mr. Hill formerly lived in Jefferson township, Putnam county, and was a civil war veteran. He was about 80 years of age. Many of the older residents of this county will remember him.

He had lived in Welda, for the past 30 years or more.

CONDITION STILL SERIOUS

The condition of Miss Dorothy Lewis, age sixteen, Shortridge High School senior, injured Thursday when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a Big Four train, remained serious at the City Hospital Friday.

Her mother, Mrs. Frank T. Lewis, Lawrence, driver of the car which was struck at the Thirty-eighth street crossing, also was in a serious condition.

EX-SECRETARY OF U. S. NAVY DIES IN BED

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO EDWIN D. DENBY EARLY
FRIDAY

DIES AT DETROIT HOTEL

Deceased Was Born In Evansville, Ind., Was Prominent In Teapot Dome Investigation.

DETROIT, Feb. 8 (UP)—Edwin D.
Denby, former secretary of the Navy died suddenly of heart failure at his hotel here today.

Denby's law office reported he had appeared in perfect health when he left yesterday. He has been at the office regularly the last two weeks.

Denby also served as representative from Michigan in the 59th, 50th and 61st congresses from 1905 to 1910.

After a consultation Dr. A. G. Jennings said Denby had been found dead in bed shortly after 8 A. M. He had died some time after 5 A. M.
Mrs. Denby had Dr. Jennings called immediately, but the former Navy head apparently had died as he slept.

Denby, who was 59 years old, was born at Evansville, Indiana. He is survived by a son, Edwin Jr., and a daughter, Marian, 14.

For the last nine years, Denby has been associated in a law firm with Joseph J. Kennedy and his younger brother, Leland Kennedy. The latter spoke with emotion of the close relationships enjoyed by the three partners. Only yesterday the former secretary had joked with him. The firm was busy, but Kennedy said there had not been any unusual amount of litigation which might have taxed Denby's strength.

Although he has a comfortable home outside the city limits, Denby and his wife had spent most of the last four years at the hotel where he died.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (UP)—Edwin Denby, former secretary of Navy was one of the conspicuous figures in the famous Senate Teapot Dome investigation, and he is the first to die.

Denby resigned after the Senate called for his resignation because of his alleged failure to block the disposition of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills Naval oil reserves to Harry F.
Sinclair and E. L. Doheny. It was charged in the Senate he was incompetent and signed the documents laid before him by the then secretary of Interior Fall without knowing their real significance.

Denby never was of any illegitimate part in the Teapot Dome affair and was regarded by the Senate critics only as an innocent tool of designing men.

The Senate adopted a resolution demanding the resignation of Denby and his other cabinet colleague, then attorney general Daugherty. President Coolidge refused to receive the Senate resolution officially holding that the Senate was without power to make such a demand. Denby stayed on a few weeks and then resigned from the cabinet receiving a letter of commendation from President Coolidge.

Denby's retirement was all the more dramatic because of his spectacular rise. When the United States went into the war Denby enlisted as a private in the marines. He finally became a recruiting sergeant.

After the war he was a probation officer in Detroit. One day in the last winter of 1920 he received a telegram from President-elect Harding to come at once to St. Augustine, Fla. Harding's cabinet was complete except for a secretary of Navy. Denby caught the next train. Harding asked him to be secretary of the Navy. Denby accepted and the Harding cabinet was completed just a few days before inauguration. Denby once served in congress and was interested in automobile manufacture.

SHELBYVILLE SQUAD MEETS CUBS TONIGHT

THRILLING BASKET BALL GAME ON TAP HERE THIS EVENING.

BAUSMAN'S TEAM IS READY

Two Well Coached High School Quintets To Clash On Hardwood.
Curtain Raiser Also.

Shelbyville high school's basket ball team, conquerors of Brazil and other good quintets over the state, invaded Greencastle this afternoon to do battle on the hardwood court with the Tiger Cubs tonight at the local gymnasium.

Coach McCullough has a husky group of athletes who are clever basketballers. They have a tall center, who has been unable to play a part of the season due to illness, but it was said he was in condition for the fray this evening. In Keht, forward, and Reiman, floor guard, Shelbyville has two splendid players. These boys are fast on their feet and have good eyes for the hoop. They also get back on defense quickly and make it plenty tough for opposing aggregations.

Coach W. E. Bausman has been pointing his Purple and Gray netters at top speed all week for the game with the Mackmen. The Cub mentor knows that the team from the furniture center is setting a fast pace and he has been busy working on a defense that he hopes will stop the invaders.

It is reported that Shelbyville uses a style of offense similar to Brazil.
That is, four men rush down the floor and try to break through the opposition's first line of defense. If successful, then Keht or his teammates, pivot and dribble in under the basket for a short shot. Bausman's proteges stopped Brazil last week and local fans are confident that the visitors will find Greencastle anything but "easy picking" tonight.

However, the Shelbyville boys take advantage of every break whenever possible and the Tiger Cubs will have to be on their toes for the entire forty minutes. Greencastle will have to display plenty of fight and endurance to win from the Mackmen.

A curtain raiser between the Junior Cubs and the Bainbridge Juniors will start at 6:45 o'clock. Doors to the gym will open at 6 p. m. and the Shelbyville-Greencastle tilt will start at 8 o'clock.

HOPE FADES FOR FINDING LITTLE GIRL

ALL CLUES AS TO WHERE ABOUTS OF CHILD PROVE IN VAIN

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 8 (UP)— Although searches are to be continued by authorities today had practically abandoned hope of immediately finding, either dead or alive, 10-year old Edith Mae Dierdorf, who disappeared from here 12 days ago.

Police said they had exhausted all possible clues that might lead to her discovery, but that searches would be continued in the hope that new clues might be developed.

Great excitement prevailed throughout Indiana yesterday when reports reached here of a radio announcement which said Edith Mae had been returned to her home safely. The announcement proved to be no avail, just as many others have, since the little girl disappeared.

The search was given impetus yesterday afternoon when a hotel owner at Freeland, Ind., reported to Sheriff Kruse of Knox County, that a man had stayed at her hotel the past week and had said he was "suspected of killing a 10 year old girl."

A posse immediately was organized and traced the man to Linton, Ind., where the trail was lost. Whether the man had a girl with him could not be learned.

The man's description has been given authorities in bordering states.

Edith Mae disappeared Jan. 27 after selling newspapers. She was last seen at a grocery store where she purchased a package of chewing gum and drove away with a man in an automobile, according to the proprietor of the store.

FINGER AMPUTATED

went an operation for the amputation of the little finger on his left hand ing, following an accident at the Zinc Mill, where he is employed. Dr. W. R.

Hutchinson was assisted by Dr. Cecil O'Brien in amputating the finger.

sor of philosophy at DePauw university, will lecture in Meharry hall, university three years ago to assist Dr. L. R. Eckardt.

HULL TRIAL ON MARCH 1

D. A. HULL APPEARED IN COURT FRIDAY MORNING. UNDER $750 BOND.

The case against B. A. Hull of Indianapolis, charged with obtaining money under false pretense, which was set for a first hearing in the Putnam Circuit Court Friday was set for trial on Friday, March 1.

Hull was arrested at his home in Indianapolis Tuesday on affidavits filed by Clyde Cash and Grafton Longden, who alleged Hull and his partner P. B. Scott, defrauded them out of monies through misrepresenting the proposed building of an electric power line east of the city past their country homes.

A warrant was issued for Scott at the same time as that against Hull, but so far, his arrest has not been reported.

The farmers who signed contracts allege Hull and Scott sold them on the proposed power and light line, by saying they had the exclusive privilege before the Public Service Commission of building the line. They collected ten per cent of the proposed total cost from some of the farmers. The also allege the men told them the checks would not be cashed at that time, but would be used as evidence of their good faith before the public service commission in furthering their project.

Instead they cashed the checks within three days after securing them and until the affidavit was first filed by Mr. Cash, nothing was heard from either Hull or Scott, and so far, nothing has been done towards starting the construction work, and it is said that another firm has the franchise for the project, if it is ever put through.

Hull's bond was fixed at $500 at the time of his arrest, but when he appeared before Judge Hughes Friday morning, it was increased to $750 and most of the day was spent in obtaining the bond.

ing the liquor laws; six with violating the National motor theft act; two bribery.

riously today when their automobile struck a fire truck, enroute to a

NORTHCOTT TO PAY PENALTY FOR MURDERS

"MURDER FARM" SLAYER TO HEAR DEATH SENTENCE
ON MONDAY.

CONVICTED ON THURSDAY

California Jury Makes No Recommendations and Death Penalty Is Automatically Expected.

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Feb. 8 (UP)— Gordon Stewart Northcott, youthful Wineville chicken rancher, seemed unperturbed by an inevitable death sentence today as he lounged in his county jail cell, convicted of slaying three young boys.

He maintained the same outward calm that marked his court appearance last night when he heard a jury report that he was guilty of first degree murder, with no recommendation for mercy.

The 22 year old Canadian will return to Superior Court Judge George R. Freeman's court Monday morning to hear himself condemned to die on the gallows. With no recommendation by the jury, the pronouncement of the death penalty is automatic.

Under the California law the sentence cannot be carried out before 90 days and in that time Northcott indicated, he would appeal.

In his testimony, Northcott declared that he did not kill the boys for whose death he was convicted—Lewis and Nelson Winslow and an unidentified Mexican, but the jury took only two ballots and the second was on whether to recommend mercy.

Northcott, cool and tight-lipped thanked the jurors for their "attention and consideration" and passed the chance to poll it on the verdict, saying a poll "is entirely unnecessary."

Northcott is without attorneys. He dismissed them in the first week's of his trial that he might question Sanford Clark, his 15-year old nephew whose stories of the horrors of the farm led to the investigation and subsequent trial.

Young Clark accused Northcott of killing not only the Winslows and the Mexican, but Walter Collins, a 9-year old Los Angeles boy. Northcott's trial on the Collins indictment is set for March 18.

The trial revealed not only stories of frightful abuse and axe slayings, but the obnoxious story of asserted tragic events in the Northcott family.

Northcott called Mrs. Louisa North-cott to the stand and, as his own attorney, led her through testimony that she was not his mother, but his grandmother.

Mrs. Northcott, now serving a life sentence in San Quentin for the murder of Walter Collins, testified that her husband, Cyrus G. Northcott, was Gordon's father by his own daughter, Mrs. Winifred Clark, of Van-Couver, B. C.

Mrs. Clark repeatedly denied the charges and claimed that Gordon was her brother and that his mother was Mrs. Northcott. Birth records however never were found to reveal further details of the confused parent-age.

Flea Is Made To Stockholders Over State By Stewart

COL. STEWART APPEALS TO HOOSIERS IN FIGHT FOR CHAIRMANSHIP.

CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (UP)—A personal plea by Colonel Robert W. Stewart for support of his candidacy for re-election as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana reached Indiana Standard stockholders today.

The plea, although a repetition of earlier statements, definitely indicated that the Stewart forces, opposed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., are prepared to carry their fight to the very gates of the administration building at Whiting, Ind., where March 7 the annual stockholders' meeting will decide whether Stewart is to be retained or ousted as demanded by the Rockefeller interests.

RELATIVE OF ROCKEFELLER MEETS DEATH

COUSIN OF JOHN D. ROCKEFEL-LER FATALITY BURNED AT DENVER, COLO.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 8 (UP)—The tragic story of the life of Mrs. Anna Imman, 81, a second cousin of John D.
Rockefeller Sr., who perished yesterday in the squallor of a cheap rented room, was revealed today.

Sparks from a grate where she heated a coffee pot and warmed the rolls that she bought at a nearby store set the aged woman's bed afire and she died in the flames. Her clothing still was smoldering when a rescue squad arrived but the woman was dead.

Police removed the body to a mortuary. Newspapers, ignorant of the victim's true identity, announced the death briefly in their death columns.

Several hours later, a young clerk in the secretary of state's office, visited the Morgue and identified the charred body as that of her mother.
The young clerk was Mrs. Anna Miller, and it was she who revealed that the occupant of the lonely, barren tenement house room, was related to the man whose name is a symbol of wealth.

Mrs. Miller said that her mother was a member of the noted Groton Avery family, which history dates back to the middle ages. She said that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was a member of that family, his fathers name being William Avery Rockefeller.

Mrs. Imman, the daughter said, was born at Oak Hill, N. Y., nine years after Rockefeller was born in Rich-ford. Half a century ago, her mother married, Mrs. Miller said, and came west.

Her husband died in the west 30 years ago and the widow married Prof. George F. Imman, a prominent musician of Cheyenne, Wyo., the couple moved with their three children to Denver and prospered. Professor Imman became prominent for his musical composition and his piano instruction. Mrs. Imman herself, flowered into an accomplished vocalist.
She was happy with her children and her future seemed assured.

Bombay Rioting Toll Reaches 65

RENEWED OUTBREAKS BE-TWEEN MOSLEMS AND PATH-ANS CLAIMS MORE LIVES

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 8 (UP)— Renewed rioting between Hindus, Pa-thans and Moslems in Bombay brought the death toll to 65 at noon today.

About 50 were estimated to have been injured in the riots which began Monday, ostensibly because Hindu millworkers believed high-born Pa-thans were kidnapping children to be buried in newly constructed buildings as offerings to the gods.

Reports that several mosques and temples had been desecrated preceded a fierce fight between Hindus and Moslems, in which two Hindus were killed and about 20 injured.

Although troops were patrolling the streets, isolated Moslem and Pa-than attacks on the Hindus continued and many were treated at hospitals for bruises and knife wounds.

Armored cars were ordered out after a battle in which sticks, stones, and soda water bottles were hurled and numerous separate skirmishes.

Miss Geneva Brown who underwent an operation for appendicitis in Indianapolis two weeks ago, returned to her home here this afternoon.

DAIRY TRAIN WILL STOP AT RUSSELLVILLE

DAIRY SPECIAL SPONSORED BY PURDUE IN COUNTY ON APRIL 18TH.

A Dairy Special sponsored by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in cooperation with Purdue University will make one stop in Putnam County on April 18 at Russellville.

Representatives of this special will be in Greencastle and vicinity on February 18 to see local farmers who desire to purchase dairy sires. These sires will be delivered when the special train comes here if the purchaser so desires.

These men are traveling all over the country in the dairy interests, and have the best of opportunity to locate good dairy sires. Anyone interested in this should see the County Agent, Robert Stevenson, at his office in the court house.

H. C. Dennison of the American Jersey Cattle Club, R. L. Hold, representative of the Guernsey Cattle Club, and C. W. Newman of the Holstein-Friesian Club, will all be on the special. They will deliver lectures and give pointers on the proper methods of feeding dairy cows for the largest production.

According to the last census report from the 5877 dairy cows in Putnam county an average of 130 lbs. of butter fat is being produced. This is just enough to pay for the cost of food and yield practically no profit.

MORE SHORTAGE FOUND

IN WHICKER'S FUNDS

Accountants at work in the auditor's office report finding records which indicate additional shortage by Auditor Whicker. The sum is covered by his official bond, however.

In 1926, Mr. Whicker asked the county Council for an appropriation of $1,250 to pay deputy hire in 1927. The council allowed the sum of $600 for deputy hire as shown by the council papers and the council record. A ledger account is kept of separate funds in the auditor's office and on this ledger, the amount allowed for deputy hire was entered $1,321.50. The amount allowed by the council for deputy hire was thus overdrawn $721.50. —Danville Republican.

STUDEBAKER SALES HIGH

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 8 —During January 1929, dealers reported the largest January retail deliveries in history, according to J. M. Cleary, Sales Manager of The Studebaker Corporation of America. More than 2,000 unfilled orders were carried over into February by the Studebaker factory.

This increase in Studebaker sales during 1929 was predicted early in January by many motor experts, following the introduction of a new Commander Eight, and improved models of The President Eight and Commander Six series at the New York Automobile Show.

Konjola Brought Happiness Into Afflicted Home

Father and Son Relieved of Complications; Now Enjoy Perfect Health.

MR. MERLE J. BROWN & SON

Age is no barrier to the amazing merits of this new medicine, Konjola. Men, women and children of all ages report complete and permanent relief from their health troubles. Take, for instance, the statement of Mr. Merle J. Brown, 1252 Markwood avenue, University Heights, Indianapolis, Indiana, who made a remarkable statement about the work of Konjola in his case and that of his son, Cleo Clifton Brown, age 6.

"Konjola benefited both my son and myself to an amazing extent. I had been troubled with my stomach, kidneys, and bowels. Suffering every day from aches and pains made life miserable. I was unable to eat a meal without enduring agonizing after effects. My son was in a run-down condition, had been since infancy. He was nervous, of a pale complexion, under-weight and suffered from a stomach disorder. I was greatly worried about him and until we both took Konjola, we never gained relief. But this medicine went to the source of our troubles and soon had our systems in good working order. Today we are like different people—well and happy, without a sign of our former ailments. I endorse Konjola to every father, mother, son, and daughter."

Konjola is sold in Greencastle at the Owl drug store and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. —(Adv.)

NOVEL IRISH NIGHTWEAR

BELFAST, Jan. 31. (UP)—The well-dressed young Irishman will sleep in very novel pajamas this year according to orders received by Ulster shirt, collar, and pajama manufacturers. Extra workers are necessary to meet the demand for fancy nightwear, and some firms report a 60 per cent increase in output. The day of the fancy shirt has gone, manufacturers say, as the jazzy patterns have given way to plain materials, or neat stripes.

EARLHAM UPSETS OLD GOLD TEAM AT RICHMOND BY 18 TO 17 SCORE.

RICHMOND, Ind., Feb. 8.—The "fighting" Quakers upset the DePauw tigers in one of the most thrilling basketball games seen on the local court in years here last night, 18 to 17.

The game was featured by close defense by both teams with the Quakers holding a slight edge. The Tigers led 10-8 at the half way mark but with the strong defensive work of Powell and the offensive strength of Reynolds the Quakers were able to forge ahead early in the second frame.

The Earlham machine functioned smoothly throughout and showed a complete reversal of form over their last encounter at Manchester.

FATE RESTS WITH GIL

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8. (UP)—The fate of Jose De Leon Toral, assistant last summer of President-elect Alvaro Obregon of Mexico, rested with President Emilio Portes Gil today.

A defense plea asking for an injunction to restrain the execution of the young artist-assassin was denied by the Mexican Supreme court last night after an all day hearing.

In refusing the defense plea, the supreme court ruled that Toral's crime was personal rather than political. Under the Mexican constitution no one may be executed for a political offense.

The date for Toral's execution has not been fixed.

AT THE VONCASTLE

Tim McCoy's best screen story of his entire film career, "Riders of the Dark", will play Saturday at the Voncastle theater.

While McCoy's former thrilling historical and Western starring productions have won him thousands of film fans throughout the world this picture is sure to enhance his cinema prestige.

It is replete with action and thrills of almost ever imaginable sort and is vastly different from the average Western, since it has neither Indian nor cowboy.

The story is laid in a California frontier town before the coming of the telegraph and railroads. As a lieutenant of cavalry McCoy is sent by the government to assist a spineless sheriff to restore order in Hangtown, a frontier village terrorized by a gang of outlaws.

WHO IS JAKE? WHO IS LENA?

That's the big question and nearly 2000 letters a day pour into the Happy Harmony Studio in the Gibson Hotel, Cincinnati, asking this question. Those who have often wondered will have the question settled next Sunday when Jake and Lena come to Greencastle.

Jack and Gene will sing many of their most popular songs and some new ones. Those who like the older ones, will have an opportunity of requesting them. Jack and Gene are stage artists of the first order, and never fail to entertain and enthrall their listeners either on the air or on the stage.

They will appear in person at the Granada Theatre, this Sunday, giving one complete performance in the afternoon and two shows at night.

AT THE GRANADA

There is a vein of delightful comedy running through Columbia's "Nothing to Wear," which is being shown at the Grand Theater, Saturday. Against a gorgeous pageantry of women's clothing which would make any girl envious Columbia has built a motion picture that has a big audience appeal.

The plot involves a wife, who is peeved because her husband will not purchase a fur coat that has taken her fancy; a husband who resolves to teach his wife a lesson, but later relents; a former sweetheart of the wife's who consoles with her and gets himself into hot water; the sweetheart's sweetheart who claims the coat and adds to the troubles and a detective who can't distinguish the difference between a maid and her mistress.

Copyright 1928 Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
"MY MAN," starring Fannie Brice, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Fanny Brice is raising her brother, Phil, and her sister, Audrey, for whom she makes every sacrifice. But Audrey leaves home to "live her own life." In the costume shop where she sews, Fanny's voice is "discovered" by Lazarus, art director for Waldo, theatrical producer, who takes her to Waldo. During the audition Fanny learns of Audrey's interest in Waldo. Heartbroken, she falls in singing. Fanny sees a man, Tom, demonstrating muscle builders and later finds him, broke, raiding her ice box. She falls in love with him and, thinking he loves her, precipitates an engagement. Audrey returns and Tom becomes infatuated. Fanny is trying on her wedding dress.

CHAPTER XI—Continued
Someone ought to say something to Fanny about it. She couldn't see a thing like that for herself. Fanny was too trusting. And yet, it would break her heart if anyone should tell her such a thing. Maybe she was wrong. Mrs. Schultz told herself. She'd better not say anything about her suspicions. She wasn't one to gossip meanly.
"Yes, I guess that's the way you would feel about it," she said after a moment. "Anyhow, Fanny, you should have good luck. I don't know anyone deserves it more."
"Thank you, Mrs. Schultz," Fanny smiled happily. "I'd like to show Tom my dress. It won't hurt just to run upstairs with it, will it?"
"Of course not. I bet he thinks it's just about the sweetest thing he ever seen. An' you look grand in Audrey was close in Tom's arms.

It. Come back soon's you're through showin' it off, so I can get it finished."

"All right," Fanny gathered up the train and stepped down off the dais, walking carefully in order not to disturb the pins. "I'll be back in just a little bit."
Light-hearted, happy almost bursting with pride, Fanny went through the hallways towards her own apartment. Neighbors stuck their heads out of the doors and called to her, admiring the finery; asking about the wedding; calling good wishes. And Fanny answered easily, all unaware, all unknowing of the events to come.

In her apartment Tom and Audrey sat in silence, each terribly conscious of the other's presence. Tom was slumped down in a chair, a newspaper spread out before him. But he couldn't seem to be able to concentrate on the printed words. They kept running together in a meaningless sort of way. He knew that Audrey was right across from him; realized her every movement. And Audrey knew that he was watching her, and trying not to.

The girl got up and walked about the room impatiently. She stopped in front of the mirror and fluffed her hair. In the glass she could see Tom turn his head and look at her. She preened herself like a bird smoothing its plumage, raised her arms, bending her neck as though to examine her face more closely. Finally she wheeled around, coming up behind his chair.

"Who won the game today?" she asked. She was leaning over his shoulder; her head was close to his; her cheek brushed his cheek.

Tom started involuntarily; glanced aside at her, and then away quickly. He wanted to catch her; to take her in his arms and hold there. He could feel the cool freshness of her skin; the warmth of her rounded shoulder and arm. And then suddenly she was gone, moving away from him, walking about the room again, that inscrutable smile on her lips. Without a word she began to wind up the victrola, change the needle and adjust a record.

"Ta-da-da dee dee—ta-da-da dee— Can't help lovin' that man o' mine."

Audrey began to sing lightly, snapping her fingers in time to the rhythm; her body swaying provocatively as she began to dance slowly, swinging her legs easily, tapping her feet, and looking—always looking at Tom.

She held out her arms in invitation. "Come on. I'll teach you a new step." She danced towards him, beckoning.

Tom threw aside his newspaper and stood up. Audrey was very near to him now. He reached out, faltering, uneasy, and took her in his arms, falling into step with her. They moved about the room lightly, gracefully. Tom could dance with Audrey—he couldn't dance as well with anyone else. She was like a feather blown on the wind. She anticipated his every motion.

Audrey was humming, and then she stopped. "Say, you're a swell dancer, Tom." She snuggled up to him, glancing at him with bright, fluttering eyes.

"No, you're—you're the swell dancer," Tom denied. "Anybody could dance with you."

Audrey laughed. "Why don't you ever take me out dancing, Tom?" she asked.

The man frowned. "Why—I—I—don't know. Maybe—maybe Fanny wouldn't like it to go."

"Oh, Fanny," Audrey sniffed. "Just because she don't dance is no reason for your sitting at home. I get fed up around here, don't you? Honest, now!"

"Why, I dunno," Tom pondered. "It's nice, an' comfortable, an'—"

"Well, comfort isn't everything," Audrey retorted. "Don't you ever like to go any place? Say, they have a swell jazz orchestra down to Dreamland. Ever been there?"

"Nope," Tom admitted. "See, Fanny don't dance much."

Tom's answers were brief. It was a little hard for him to carry on a conversation while he was dancing, and almost impossible when he was dancing with Audrey. He couldn't keep his mind on the subject.

Audrey, thinking, because of Tom's silence, that she might have said a little too much, fell to humming again.

"When he goes away . . . that's a rainy day . . . An' when he comes back th' day is fine . . ."

Th' sun will shine . . . Tell me he's lazy . . . maybe I know . . .

Tell me I'm crazy . . . maybe it's so . . . Can't help lovin' that man o' mine . . ."

She was singing to Tom, watching his face; watching the impression she was creating. She was leading him on—and on. The soft, low notes in his ear; the voluptuous warmth of her body against his; the beat of the music throbbing through his veins. She lay her head on his shoulder.

The music stopped. The whirling of the needle against the disc sounded the warning buzz. Audrey muttered something beneath her breath that sounded like a faint invective.

"Come on, let's dance some more," she suggested, pulling away from Tom and going over to the victrola, winding it and starting the record again.

"All right," Tom somehow felt that he shouldn't, but he wanted to—wanted to dance and dance—with Audrey forever in his arms.

In the perfume of her hair he had forgotten about Fanny. In the soft sweetness of her he had lost all track of time and place. He held out his arms. Together they glided off into another world.

"Oh, Tom, you're so wonderful," Audrey sighed. That was her pet "line." Audrey knew it, and knew that it worked. But to Tom it was unbelievable to think that Audrey should say things like that to him. Audrey, so pretty, so deliciously tantalizing, so lovable.

"You're not so bad yourself, kid," he mumbled hoarsely. "You're a great little girl."

"You wouldn't fool me, Tom," she whispered.

"Not much!"

On and on they went, scarcely knowing where or how they were dancing. Their feet were moving slowly, slowly. Neither of them spoke. The silence was tense, frightening, like a dream from which one couldn't wake, couldn't cry out.

And then, somehow, they were out of the light; out in the dimness of the kitchen. The door swung closed behind them. They stopped. From the living room the sound of the record playing came but softly. Through the open window the lay air of summer hung heavy, smothering them in its stillness. Things seemed faint and far away. Noises were drowned out; a quietness lay all about them.

And Audrey was close in Tom's arms, closer than ever before. His lips were on her neck. He kissed her madly, again and again, covering her face with kisses. Her arms went about his neck and she drew his head down to meet hers. It was like a dark haven, secure, apart from all the rest of the world. Nothing mattered, nothing meant anything.

A SUCKER BORN A MINUTE

Women in Bedford and Seymour who rent rooms, have been swindled during the past few days by a "sucker" the man goes to one of the homes hunting rooms. He looks them over and decides to take them and offers a month's rent in advance, but the advance payment is in the form of a check. At both places the party tells the woman from whom he is renting, that he is going into business in the town and as the check is usually drawn on a local bank, the woman does not suspect trickery. He offers a large check one place it was for $75 and the woman accepted $35 of it for rent and gave him her personal check for the change, which the man suggested and gladly accepted. He left the house, saying he would soon return with his clothing and other personal goods, but instead of returning, he went to the bank, cashed the good check and left town.
